Heartfelt February and March 2013 ❖❖❖❖

Happy Valentine’s Day! Happy St. Patrick’s Day!

Read It - Liked It

These are books that I have read recently that I can recommend as good reads. Not all of them will appeal to everyone so feel free to call or email if you are wondering about a certain title.

I love the new book by Robert Crais, Suspicion. It is a new character, an LAPD cop who suffers from PTSD and his partner, Maggie, a German Shepherd who was an explosive dog in Afghanistan and also has PTSD. Equally satisfying is The Woman Who Wouldn’t Die by Colin Cotterill, a new Dr. Siri mystery, set in Laos (available in March). Another is a new author for me – Leighton Gage – and his book Perfect Hatred. Set in Brazil, with lots of action, and a complex plot, it is a police procedural featuring Brazilian Inspector Mario Silva.

Fortunately, for those who love British mysteries Jim Kelly has brought back reporter Philip Dryden in Nightrise. These books are British and can be difficult to obtain, but it appears that there will be more available in March, so if you do want one, it is best to order it quickly. You can also never go wrong with Peter Robinson's Alan Banks series, which is one of my personal favorites. His new book, Watching the Dark, is no exception.

If you like thrillers the new Zoe Sharp, Die Easy, is hard to beat. Charlie Fox is in New Orleans in this book, acting as a celebrity body guard. I finished this book in two days; I could not put it down. I will put C.J. Box's new book Breaking Point in this category as it was non-stop action - I could not put this one down either.

For something a little different, I recommend Poppy Gee’s book Bay of Fires. Set in a summer fishing camp on the Tasmanian coast and featuring a recently unemployed young woman who gets involved in the murder of a tourist this book is atmospheric and quite dark, but without much graphic violence.

On the cozy side I can strongly recommend Aaron Elkins new book, Dying on the Vine, which is set in Italy. Elkins has a way of writing about places that makes you feel like you are there, sitting in the sun on an Italian mountainside, drinking a glass on wine. Other cozies that I can recommend are Carola Dunn's new offering in her Cornish series, The Valley of the Shadow, and Mignon Ballard's book, Miss Dimple Suspects. It is set in Georgia during World War II.

Other books mentioned in the newsletter below that I have read and can recommend are marked with an asterisk.

After March 26, 2013 I will have signed copies of Jacqueline Winspear's newest book Leaving Everything Most Loved, 1st Edition, New, for 26.99. Quantities are very limited so order soon!
In Memoriam

I am very sad to report that, unless a buyer can be found, Murder By the Book in Portland, Oregon will close all operations in April.

Two more other sad occurrences: mystery and romance author Gwendolyn Butler, died on January 5, 2013 at the age of 90. She was the author of the popular series featuring Inspector John Coffin. She also wrote under the name Jennie Melville. The writer of the Sister Frevisse and Joliff Player historical series of mysteries, Margaret Frazer, passed away on February 5, 2013 at the age of 66. Condolences to their family, friends and fans everywhere.
