Read It - Liked It

Barbara Cleverly's latest Joe Sandilands book, The Spider in the Cup is terrific, in it Joe is tasked with protecting a US senator. It is a cozy mystery, but with plenty of action and intrigue. Also, for those who like conspiracy and intrigue, with a side of art theft thrown in, I can recommend Multiple Exposure the first book in a new series by Ellen Crosby. If you like your thrillers really light, with a bit of romance, Janet Evanovich's new book The Heist is just the right thing. The characters and situations are not as wacky as in the Plum series but the characters are fun and the pace is fast and exciting.

On the darker side, by which I mean a lot darker, there is Arnuldar Indridason's new book Black Skies. This book focuses on Det. Sigurdur Oli, Det. Erlander's colleague, and the character development is extensive. It was interesting to see Indridason take a character who is actually not very likeable and make him sympathetic. The plot is multi-layered & extremely well put together... it is an excellent read.

I also loved the second book in Julia Keller's series, Bitter River. Featuring local prosecuting attorney Belle Elkins, it is set in rural West Virginia and has well-drawn characters and a terrific sense of place. It's terrific suspenseful mystery.

I just finished William Kent Krueger's latest, Tamarack County. I am a huge fan of this series and this book only confirmed my feelings. The plot is complex and suspenseful, the mystery is satisfying and there is always a secondary plot centered on Cork O'Connor's family that makes them seem like a real family. I read it from start to finish without putting it down. Although this is the 13th book in this series, readers who have not read the earlier books can easily follow the characters and the story.

I also have started re-reading Steven Havill's Posadas County mysteries. Bill Gastner, who was the main character in the first 9 books, is a low-key, 62 yr. old insomniac undersheriff in a fictitious rural county on the Mexican border in New Mexico. Plus he eats way more Mexican food than is good for him. In the later books, Bill's friend and successor Estelle Reyes-Guzman takes the lead. Estelle is a tough & smart cop, but is a completely different person in her home life, which involves a chaotic and loving family. The characters are engaging and their lives are vividly drawn. The setting is so completely & convincingly described that after I read the first few books I was trying to locate the place on a map. I can highly recommend this series for anyone who appreciates books set in the rural west.

As I have said before, not every book will appeal to everyone, so if you want more information about a title, please feel free to ask!

Sad News – we have lost three much loved mystery authors in the past two months. Barbara Mertz, also known as Barbara Michaels and Elizabeth Peters, passed away at 85 on August 8, 2013. She wrote more than 60 books including the Amelia Peabody, Vicki Bliss and Jacqueline Kirby series of mysteries.

Leighton Gage passed away on July 27, 2013. He was the author of Chief Inspector Mario Silva mysteries which are set in Brazil. His last book The Ways of Evil Men will be published in January, 2014. Memorial gifts may be made to the Pancreatic Cancer Action Network

Also, Dianne Day, the award winning author of the Fremont Jones San Francisco mysteries died July 11, 2013 in California at the age of 75. Sympathy goes to their family, friends and fans.
